Natasha is a strategic finance executive with more than 15 years of experience leading financial operations, financial planning and analysis (FP&A), and accounting functions in high-growth organizations. She brings a strong combination of financial leadership and hands-on execution, helping clients strengthen financial performance, improve operational efficiency, and build scalable finance functions that support sustainable growth.

Her experience spans building finance operations from the ground up, establishing foundational processes and controls, and developing structured teams and reporting capabilities as organizations grow. Natasha understands the evolving financial needs of expanding businesses and brings a practical approach to aligning financial strategies, systems, and resources with organizational objectives.

With expertise in budgeting, forecasting, financial reporting, and strategic analysis, Natasha helps leadership teams gain greater visibility into business performance and make informed decisions. She combines financial discipline with an operational mindset to create efficient, sustainable processes that support both immediate business priorities and long-term success.
